

Student's Request to Use Separation as a Marital Status

This request is designed to provide students that are in transition from married to divorced obtain aid based on the student's income.

The Department of Education states that:

"A couple doesn't have to be legally separated in order to be considered separated. The couple may consider themselves informally separated when one of the partners has left the household for an indefinite period of time. If the partners live together, they can't be considered informally separated."
